JPCC Board Candidates November 2020

Brian Danin

I want to be a member of the Board to build community advocacy within the city and to promote community conversation. Skills I bring include web, leadership, organizational, and creative abilities.

Brian Hensley

I want to be a part of a neighborhood that is active and represents our common interests. Being on the council is a way ensure that I am a part of the solution. I have served as the Secretary for the council for the last two years and am interested in continuing my involvement with Jackson Place to create a well informed and involved community.

Diane Beverly

I want to continue the work re: setting up the Judkins Park Hub site. I bring skills and interests in safety, traffic, equity, emergency preparedness, and inclusiveness.

James Weber

I am running for another term on the Jackson Place Community Council because I love our community and representing our interests. I have been a resident since 2014 and this past year I served as JPCC treasurer. I am currently working on obtaining reimbursements for supplies for the Emergency Hub and will next focus on ensuring compliance with non-profit registration and tax reporting.

Larry Logue

Being a member of JPCC is a great way to be involved in our community. My focus will be to foster activities which help our neighbors get to know each other better, and improve our safety and security. I am also interested in working with our community and the city to provide safer and more efficient vehicle, bike and pedestrian traffic flow in our neighborhood as it becomes more densely populated. I am a Seattle resident since 1996. I moved to Jackson Place in 2012. I have served several years as Treasurer, and am currently one of our reps on the Central Area Neighborhood District Council, and participate in the EastPAC meetings. I am a hiker and a walker. I find our neighborhood a delightful place to live in, walk, and explore.

Mark Lloyd

I have lived in the Jackson place for over 30 years and want to contribute the neighborhood.

MaryKate Ryan

I moved to Jackson Place in March of 2020 from Queen Anne. The neighborhood is peaceful and vibrant, and I'd like to get more involved. I would like to learn more about the development of this neighborhood, the mix of residents, and who is driving changes. I'm an architectural historian who has worked in the CID for the past 4 years. I have experience working within state and city programs, as well as with finding ways to make sure community voices are heard in larger planning discussions.

Mike Brestel

I have lived in Jackson Place since mid-2014. I have served on the JPCC board for the 2015-2020 terms. I am a licensed WA architect with more than 17 years working in the profession. I graduated from the UW Master in Urban Design + Planning program. Through my professional and academic experience, I bring knowledge of and input to decisions affecting the Jackson Place Community. I am interested in promoting thoughtful planning & land use regulations, density appropriate for the neighborhood and architectural design that complements the existing character. I enjoy the Jackson Place community, plan to live here for quite some time and want to make positive change through my participation in the JPCC. I have an urban planning background. I am a licensed architect. Interest include crime reduction, improving the neighborhood character, and land use.

Rebecca Adrian

I am in a current member of the board and appreciate working with others to make quality of life improvements to neighborhood with residents and city officials. I also enjoy helping bring residents together to converse and celebrate. Skills and interests include: Experience being on other boards and experience being both a renter and a homeowner here in Jackson Place. A passion for trying to help make the neighborhood greener.

Georgia Anastasiou

I want to be a member of the community council to stay informed, influence neighborhood improvements, and get to know my neighbors better. I bring background in real estate development, interest in politics and urban planning, and I am community-oriented.
